THE KNOCKING ENDED !

*"I opened to my beloved; but my beloved had withdrawn himself when he spake: I sought him, but I could not find him; I called him."
(Song of Solomon 5:6)*

The moment the knocking ended, Solomon's bride arose to open her bed or resting place, moved to the door and opened it. She tried to open the door, but He had left. This is a close parallel to the Church. When they arise, like Solomon's lazy bride! Solomon's bride finally runs to the door, but the one who has left is his fleeting fragrance in the place where he used to be! So it is Saints, we need to know that the Lord will not continue to knock forever. The knocking will stop at some point of time. The moment the Lord leaves, Solomon's bride will begin to arise. She will arise to open the door, but the only thing she would get is the sweet fragrance in the place where He once used to be.

The seeming tragedy in this hour is that the Lord is persistently knocking at the door of our house, and there is none to listen to His knock and open the door. It is an accurate picture of the Bridegroom (the Lord Jesus Christ), persistently knocking at the door. We find a double-hearted woman (the Church) say, "I will open to Him." She has a divided heart for the Lord. She is able to hear and distinguish who says, "Open to me, my sister, my love, my dove, and my unc weakly to say that she is half-asleep. The response of the Church to open the door, is no different to the feeble, unenthusiastic, re: Bridegroom in Chapter five of the Song of Solomon. "I sleep, but my my beloved that knocketh, saying, Open to me, my sister, my love, i head is filled with dew, and my locks with the drops of the night. I h: put it on? The Lord's bride-to-be, the one He loves, the one to whom He comfortable in her present state. She has become too relaxed, : refuses to open the door because it is inconvenient for her to do so. high for her. She is highly indifferent to the Lover of her soul. She and inconvenience for His sake. The discomfort has brought an apat slowly and casually when the Beloved knocks at the door! She is position of ease and comfort. O, she is too casual in her attitud perfectly mirrors the manner in which the Lord's people are respondi

Can you hear a voice within the Voice? Can you hear something to convey to His Church? The time is coming when the knocking will knock according to our convenience. The Church cannot dictate t Church cannot specify or lay down the times of His knocking. It is u only rely on the pure mercies of the living God.

We see that Solomon's bride arose from her laziness and relaxed knocking stopped! But it was too late! The moment the knock upon opened the door. Yes, she was eager and excited when she went to but He was no longer there. All she could sense was the fragranc there. Could this be the fate of the Church?

The Amplified Bible says, "I opened to my beloved but my I withdrawn himself and was gone. My soul went forth for Him, but no I could not find him. I called Him but he gave me no answer."
